So, apparently, a doc is going around trying to make me out to be a creepy pedo and a self-inserter. However, I know who this person is and remember how much of a pain they were to deal with. But, even if I know what they're trying to make me out to be something that I'm not, I feel in my heart that I need to make this response. Everyone tells me to let it go and to let it take its course, but I just can't do it. I have to say it.

I've looked over the doc, and this is what I have to say.

No, I'm not a creep, a pedo, a rapist, or anything that they're claiming me to be. If you know me, you'd know this. Nothing about what they're claiming me to be is true. So, I'm just going to talk to you all about it.

I think that I've made it very clear by this point that I'm not a self-inserter and that all my characters have had their lives and their relationships with the girls they're in love with thought out and fully realized. Yes, I am aware that the girls that my characters are in love with are young. However, I pair them up because I love their characters.

For example, Wendy Corduroy is a fantastic character whom I adore. I will admit that when I was younger, I had a bit of a crush on her. However, that doesn't mean that I would self-insert myself into the story just to date her.

I can kind of see why people might think characters like Patrick, Booker, and Frank are self-inserts, since they take the spotlight from the main characters. Because the story is focused on these new characters, they do take center stage.

Yes, I like and share many sexy artworks of female characters. Anyone who is on DeviantArt can see that. It's not really a secret. As do the members of my server, the people on servers that I've been invited to, and my friends online. It's not a particularly new thing to do on Discord. Why else do you think the place gets a bad rep? While yes, I've liked and shared many AI-generated artworks, and some I can see now were inappropriate to like and share. This is a habit that I'm going to stop for now, as well as the members of my server.

On my server, we had an unspoken rule that underage NSFW art was not allowed. It was an unspoken rule because, as we were reasonable people, it shouldn't have had to be written down. We weren't always successful at following this rule, and I take the blame.

I'd set rules for my server that prohibit underage art and have tried to enforce them. However, I am not always on the server to monitor what everyone is sharing. I've been trying to find ways to address and prevent this issue, but once I realized it wasn't going to work and that it'd cause more problems than just being a fun thing for everyone on my server, I completely deleted the NSFW art channels.

At the same I'll be going through my DeviantArt favorites to remove some of the most inappropriate content.

This is the major thing I've been trying to fix about myself and my server. Perhaps I should have done it years ago, but I hope it's enough for people to see that I'm serious about changing.

Yes, I write lemon stories, and yes, they can be quite…spicy. This is how I write lemons, and how I've been writing them for years, since my first lemon scene for the Red Dragon Samurai. It's something I've taken inspiration from while reading other lemon scenes in other stories. However, if people really do take offense to how I write, then I'll dial back on how characters act.

It should also be noted that while I do make the sex scenes intense, all of the characters in each of the stories are 18 or older. The reason why there hasn't been a sex scene with Wade Walker, Ochaco, Mina, and Momo is that it just wouldn't feel right. Johanna from Hilda, Debbie Turnbull, Maria Santiago, and Leah Stein Storres are all grown women in their 30s. They are in their 20s. Both Patrick and Wendy were 18 years old when I made their lemon story.

Even Asia in the Red Dragon Samurai is 18! In canon, she's 17, but I aged her up.

If there is one thing, however, that I'm guilty of and something I wish to do better is how I respond to questions, ideas, comments, and criticism. I don't have the best track record of making the best reactions or being in the best moods when talking to people. It's because of my ADHD and my impulsiveness that I've driven people away. It's not an excuse, but the truth. And for that, I'm sorry.

I've been doing this for years now. And I do it for the love of fanwork, the writing, and the shows that I've written about. The reason that I've been as successful as I've come to be as both a writer and an artist is that I write whatever I want, and then I allow my audience to find me. And when they came, I knew these were the people I wanted to write for. These were the people I wanted to draw for.

I'm not anything the claims doc says that I am. The person who's been sharing the doc, while he might not be the original creator, I know fairly well. He's been on my server twice, and twice he's been kicked for being unpleasant and rude to my friends.

I'm not some pedo, creepy, self-insert. I would never, ever do what the doc said I'll do. I've made mistakes, yes, but anyone who knows me knows that I'm nothing like the claims say that I am. Please, believe me on that and that I'm willing to be better.

Thank you for listening, and stay safe out there.